All About Southern Claims Commission.

ST. LOUIS, August 26.—There were seven small fires to-day. Four firemen were prostrated by the heat. The thermometer stood at from 98 to 104 to-day.

A dispatch from Louisville states that Blanton Duncan says he never had a claim of fifty thousand dollars against the Government, nor a claim for a dollar, and if he had, it could not be collected as he was not paroled as a rebel until October, 1866.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The aggregate number of claims presented to the Southern Claims Commission thus far is sixteen thousand, ranging from $12 to $50,000 and averaging $2,500 each. The Commission have finally reported on five hundred and eighty cases, in which $1,600,000 were claimed. About two hundred and fifty of them were rejected, principally for absence of proofs of loyalty. For the remaining three hundred and thirty cases, Congress, on the recommendation of the Commission, appropriated $550,000, the money having since been paid with the exception of $15,000, was stopped through the report of special agents who were employed after the general report of the Commissioners had been made to Congress and who discovered reasons for withdrawing this amount in the three or four cases from Virginia.

The Commissioners, three in number, now absent from Washington, have under examination five hundred claims apiece, upon which they will report at their meeting in October next, when an addition of five hundred other cases will be decided. The commission will, according to the law creating it, expire on the 3rd of March next, and six years will be consumed in transacting the business now on hand; under the bureau system, such as prevail in the department, fifty years would be required for this purpose. The rapidity of transacting the business of the commission is unprecedented, there being only chief clerk and only four assistants. This expedition is principally due to the fact that but few formalities are observed and voluminous books dispensed with.

The expenses to claimants are small. There are no office fees excepting those for taking testimony and the lowest charge is made for claims under one thousand dollars. Information has been received that agents in the South are collecting claims of persons whose property was taken for public uses or destroyed to facilitate military operations, but who cannot prove loyalty owing to their giving aid and comfort to the confederates. These agents are acting upon the supposition that Congress will ultimately disburse with the loyalty clause. The amount of such claims is already large.

NEW YORK, August 26.—A fire broke out this morning in the United States bonded warehouse of Charles Zenist, No. 8, Washington street. The loss, which falls principally on importers of liquors, will amount to fully $250,000. The origin of the fire was accidental.

BANGOR, ME., Aug. 26.—Mary de Sales, Mother Superior of St. Xavier Convent, is dead.

POLITICAL.

CHARLES O'CONNOR IN DEMAND BY DEMOCRATS.

West Virginia Anti-Greeley.

WHEELING, Va., Aug. 26.—Twenty-three counties give Jacob a majority of six thousand. The result upon the constitution is doubtful.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The Herald says editorially it is reported of going authority that Mr. Charles O'Connor has addressed a letter to the Louisville Convention of Straight-outs prohibiting the use of his name by them for Presidential or any other office. Mr. O'Connor states that the fee simple of the world would not induce him to accept the nomination.

The Sun says Charles O'Connor, in an interview with James McKenna, who asked him if he would be a candidate of the Democrats and Liberals for Governor of the State, said he did not seek the nomination, but if nominated he would accept.

Bradley County Republicans.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24, 1872.

To-day the Republican Convention met to appoint delegates to the Nashville State and the Chattanooga Third Congressional Conventions, the former to be held September 4; the latter September 11, 1872. About twenty delegates were selected and go unopposed. The following resolutions, ordered to be published in the CHRONICLE, were unanimously adopted: First, That we have full confidence in the Republican party, which, coming into power when our National Government seemed but a wreck; its treasury bankrupt; its handful of soldiers in the remote territories; its rotten navy scattered to the ends of the earth; its forts, arsenals and a large portion of its public buildings and arms in the possession of its enemies, took hold of the government and saved it from ruin; restored its lost credit; built an irresistible navy; raised, equipped and supported mighty armies and crushed the most formidable rebellion on record; created a national currency that is an honor to our age; that magnanimously pardoned all who rebelled against the government; restored their forfeited property and only asked them to sin no more.

Second, That we endorse the platform of principles adopted by the Republican party in Philadelphia June 6, 1872, and cordially welcome to our ranks all who disavow the coalition between extreme Republicans and extremists of all other parties.

Third, That in the selection of a candidate for Congress, that he must be a Republican; and that for Elector he must be a Republican, or in full sympathy with the Republican party.

NO. LXXXI.

JACKSONBORO', Aug. 12, 1872.

EDITORS CHRONICLE: Jacksonboro' is a place destined to rise in importance at some not very distant point in the future. Its location and surroundings insure this. The beauty of the scenery impress every visitor, and the invigorating breeze, which almost constantly passes through it, is exhilarating, to say the least of it, in its influence. It is situated in one of the richest valleys in East Tennessee, and the hills and ridges surrounding it are fertile and the country generally is very productive. Among the attractions of Jacksonboro' are the MINERAL SPRINGS, about one mile from town. They are situated at the base of Cumberland Mountain and consist of black and red sulphur and alum, in close proximity to each other. Four other springs of different kinds of water have been open there once in time, but through neglect have been filled up by washings from the mountain. They have been under no particular supervision for some time, the property being in litigation, but now a decree has been issued by the Chancery Court for the sale of this tract of land of two hundred acres, including the Springs, but it must bring $1200 to make the sale valid. It is to come off in Jacksonboro' on the 9th day of September 1872, with terms of one and two years' credit. A man of some capital could not make a better investment. The location is a splendid one for a hotel and suitable grounds and could be put in trim order for a watering place at a comparatively small investment. And for the lover of scenery just above the springs on the summit of Cumberland Mountain is the Jacksonboro' LOOKOUT.

Grand and beautiful is the sight from this point. Far as the eye can reach the enraptured soul drinks in the beauty of the scenery and involuntarily exclaims, oh, how sublime! Up the valley you can see almost to Cumberland Gap, nearly every house and farm. Casting your eyes towards Knoxville you can see its surroundings and locate that city, but its depth prevents you from distinguishing objects. I am told, however, that with a large telescope the building at the Fair ground can be seen. The Smoky Mountains of North Carolina are also plainly visible from this splendid Lookout.

Half way down the mountain there is a splendid spring, the water coming forth from the very bowels of the mountain as cold as ice, almost, and as clear as crystal, and in a stream large enough to furnish a sufficiency of water for a city. The high of the spring above Jacksonboro' is so great that the cost would be comparatively small to erect the best of water works and furnish the city, should it ever rise to that dignity, with an abundance of Heaven's beverage. I don't mean to imply by this that there is a scarcity of water at present, far from it. There are several of the best of springs in the town that never go dry. The valley of the Powell's Valley, which is one of the largest and richest in this end of the State, is well watered with branches, creeks and a small river, and the season has to be dry, indeed, if it affects the crops any.

FRUIT AND GRAPES.

There has not been as much attention paid to this important branch of industry as there should have been, but all experiments heretofore made establish fact that as a fruit and grape producing section, Campbell county, at least that section of it bordering the Cumberland Mountain, will be hard to surpass.

One gentleman in Jacksonboro, has already a vineyard of several acres, and intends to enlarge it as fast as possible, the experiment proving that it will be a success. This fall will be three years since its commencement, and the promised yield surpasses the fondest anticipation of its founder, and the great beauty is, that while it does not serve the people in the event it should perish and fail, all I ask is, that you will lay my bones among you, wrapped in my country's flag with her Constitution. I know that I shall be abused, but it is you that are putting me forward, and you must help me to bear the abuse, and be prepared to receive some of the blows. [Cries of "We will. We will."] I know I shall be abused. [A voice.—Hearah for the Master!] Yes, that is the motto, in every country that the house of the dogs will be opened, [applause and laughter.] and Blanch, Sweetheart, Tray and all the little dogs will turn out, [cheers.] but let them come, the whole pack may snap at me. They will find that I am one who can give blows as well as receive them.

SCHOOLS.

Although a tax has been levied for common school purposes, through some misunderstanding of the commissioners and others, there is none in operation as yet. But Jacksonboro' is not to be behind in educational matters, and a fine subscription school is in operation under the supervision of Mr. H. S. Niblo, assisted by his sister, Miss Mary Niblo, well known in Knoxville as a good teacher. It commenced last week with sixty scholars and has reached already to eighty, showing a fair appreciation of Mr. Niblo's merits. There is some talk of stirring up the commissioners and getting the free school under way, there being enough of material still at large to build up another school without interfering in the least with the one now in operation.

Since writing the above I learn that the free school will be opened next week. It will be, as I am informed under the supervision of Mr. Niblo, in a separate department and under a competent teacher, especially engaged for that purpose. Campbell county is alive to the subject of education, and the immigrant need have no fears but that his children will be able to obtain the suitable training they wish them to have. All over the county, in every district, I hear of flourishing schools, and the people everywhere seem perfectly willing to pay a liberal school tax.

Denison, the Defamer.

WASHINGTON, August 28.—REV. C. W. Denison, who makes the assertion that Senator Wilson informed him that President Grant drank too much, has got himself into a political scrape. His record as an army chaplain is being hunted up at the War Department, showing that he was dismissed from the service for violation of the rules of war, and will be extensively published. He has, it is said, even broken the most solemn vows with the higher branch of the Masonic order of the District, and has few friends in or out of the temperance cause here, which he claims to father.

ANDY ON THE RAMPAGE.

He Wants to be Wrapped in the Flag With the Constitution.

He Proposes to Give as well as Take Blows.

The Workingmen's Mass Meeting at Nashville on Saturday night, to nominate Andy Johnson for Congress was an imposing demonstration. He was escorted to the square, seated in an open barouche drawn by four horses, followed by a long torch light procession. Resolutions endorsing him as the workingmen's friend and approving his course as a public man, were read and adopted.

Among other things Mr. Johnson spoke as follows:

Many have written letters, many have talked to me, and solicited me to run. It was the voluntary, the free and spontaneous presentation of my name, without any asking on my part. I have been a long time in public life, have filled all the positions from the lowest to the highest, and I am free to say that those who have been my worst enemies are some of those who belong to my own camp. Yes, the arrow which has sunk deepest into my bosom was sped by the archer of my own camp.

How do we find in this State? We find conventions are more contrivances contrived by rings, and used for the purpose of distributing offices and their emoluments among themselves, their friends, their kit, and their kin.

How was it with this convention the other day? They went, if I may be pardoned the expression, like so many sheep in the shambles, and the people are now complacently called upon to ratify the sale and transfer if you please. That is what has been done. We used to say: "What constitutes a State? Not high-raised battlements, not moated walls, but men; high-minded men—these constitute a State. Freeman who 'know their rights, and knowing, dare maintain.'" [Hurrah for Moses.] This is what we want in our State.

Fellow-citizens, there were some resolutions read here tonight in reference to my becoming a candidate for Congress. You will pardon me at my time of life, if he says as he has a right to say, that he studied the interest of his people always, with assiduity and earnest honesty. I want to disabuse the public mind. I do not desire office nor its emoluments. I've enough to take care of myself in my declining years, with one of my economical habits and frugal management. I want my position distinctly understood. I have said I came not here as a candidate. I have enjoyed all the honors of office. In those days I was a candidate and I asked the vote of my people. I obtained it and I do say that never yet have I been disappointed in the people, though I have been betrayed by politicians. [Applause.] I am no seeker of office. [A voice.—Well, and you are not a candidate.] I am not a candidate now, if you, the people, wish me to enter your service, you must nominate me as your candidate. [Loud cries of "We do, we do."] Great applause. If you make the request, I have to say that you have never refused to grant me any request I have made of you, and so now, if you really believe that the condition of affairs is such as to require my services, if you put me in nomination and present me as the standard-bearer of the people, I will take your colors and bear them into every county in the State. [Loud and long continued applause, and three tremendous cheers, which rose again and again for fully five minutes.] Yes, with the banner of the principles of the people, the Constitution and the law, with the remaining portion of my strength and so long as my health lasts, I will battle for you. And if my health fails me and my physical organ does not serve me, then, in the event I should perish and fail, all I ask is, that you will lay my bones among you, wrapped in my country's flag with her Constitution. I know that I shall be abused, but it is you that are putting me forward, and you must help me to bear the abuse, and be prepared to receive some of the blows. [Cries of "We will. We will."] I know I shall be abused. [A voice.—Hearah for the Master!] Yes, that is the motto, in every country that the house of the dogs will be opened, [applause and laughter.] and Blanch, Sweetheart, Tray and all the little dogs will turn out, [cheers.] but let them come, the whole pack may snap at me. They will find that I am one who can give blows as well as receive them.

THROWING UP THE SPONGE.

The Greeley Enthusiasm "Dying Out."

The New York Herald, a Greeley organ, in its leading editorial of the 24th on "The Prospects of the Presidential Campaign," says what must put a stop to the silly game of brag of the Greeley organs: It says:

From the accounts furnished by our special correspondents in this State and elsewhere, as well as from the indications of the popular feeling, it is evident that the enthusiasm for Greeley and the opposition movement is dying out, and is succeeded by a "sober second thought," which holds men back from the change proposed by those who have been endeavoring to rally the people of the United States to the cry of "Anything to beat Grant."

What Greeley Thinks of Democrats.

Let the sojourner understand that he is enrolled to fight a preel of knives, all liable to indictment, trial by jury and execution—men who have wickedly disturbed the peace of the world without provocation—men with whom no terms are to be made—Dick Turpins, who call themselves Generals, and Capt. Kyds, who call themselves commanders. A thief is a thief—a liar is a liar—a perjurer is a perjurer; AND EVERY SOUTHERN TRAITOR, WHO IS MORALLY RESPONSIBLE, IS ALL THREE TOGETHER! Pray, do not let us have any more talk about our "misguided Southern brethren!" There is one thing which Southern secession cannot compass, and that is an oblation in history and tradition, of the frauds, feints and falsehoods with which the traitors enterprise began. THESE TRAITORS ARE OUTSIDE THE WORLD'S RESPECT FOREVER. Neither in its inception nor in its progress has the thing been respectable. There has been too much vulgar dishonesty, like that of gamblers, footpads and pickpockets, about it.—Horace Greeley August 6, 1862.

Point wherever you please to an election district which you will pronounce morally rotten, given up in great part to debauchery and vice, whose voters subsist mainly by keeping police offices, gambling houses, grogshops and darker dens of infamy, and that district will be found at nearly or quite every election giving a majority for that FIND OUT YOURSELF THE "DEMOCRATIC" PARTY. Take all the haunts of debauchery in the land, and you will find nine-tenths of their master-spirits active partisans of that same Democracy. What is the instinct, the sympathetic cord, which attaches them so uniformly to this party? Will you consider?—HORACE GREELEY.

"We hold traitors responsible for the work upon which they have precipitated us, and we want them that they must abide the full penalty. * * * The rebels of that State (Virginia) and Maryland may not flatter themselves that they can enter upon a war against the Government and afterward return to quiet and peaceful homes. They choose to play the part of traitors, and they must suffer the penalty. The worst race of emasculated first families must give place to a sturdier people, whose pioneers are now on their way to Washington, at this moment, in regiments. An allotment of land in Virginia would be a fitting reward to the brave fellows who have gone to fight their country's battles."—Editorial article headed "Constitution," Tribune April 23, 1861.

"But nevertheless we mean to conquer them—not merely to defeat, but to conquer, to subvert them—and we shall do this the most mercifully the more speedily we do it. BUT WHEN THE REBELLIOUS TRAITORS ARE OVERWHELMED IN THE FIELD, AND SCATTERED LIKE LEAVES BEFORE AN ANGRY WIND, IT MUST NOT BE RETURN TO PEACEFUL AND CONTENTED HOMES. THEY MUST FIND POVERTY AT THEIR FEET, AND SEE PRIVATION IN THE EYES OF MOTHERS AND THE RAGS OF CHILDREN."—Editorial article headed "No Half Measure," Tribune, May 1, 1861, p. 4, col. 4.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY OF KENTUCKY.

Second Grand Gift Concert.

DAY OF THE DRAWING FIXED.

No Postponement from September 28th.

To the Public:

The Trustees of the Public Library of Kentucky being satisfied from the large sale of tickets already made, and the daily increasing demand for them, that there will be no occasion for postponing the second drawing in the Gift Concert in aid of the Public Library of Kentucky, have instructed me, as their agent and manager of the Gift Concert, to say to the public and ticket holders that the drawing will positively take place on September 28th prox., and will not be postponed. An active demand for tickets comes from every State and Territory of the United States, and from the Canadas, giving assurance to the Trustees that no circumstances can prevent a drawing at the appointed time. A sufficient clerical force is engaged to keep up with the orders for tickets, and in order that this office may be relieved of the immense pressure incident to the business for the week or two immediately preceding the drawing, agents especially, and those desirous of procuring tickets, are requested to send in their orders immediately, as sales will have to be closed in due time. The necessary preparations for the drawing. It is the wish of the management to fill every order for a ticket, as well as to sell all the tickets, but those who apply first must be supplied; and, if those who put off buying until sales are closed, have their money returned, instead of the tickets ordered, as in the first Gift Concert in December last, when thousands of dollars that came too late were sent back, that they will have none to blame but themselves.
